

A Student Delegation from Al Falah University Visits Printwell printing press

In order to strengthen the frameworks of cooperation and social interaction and linking the theoretical knowledge with practical applications, the College of Business Administration at Al Falah University organized a visit to Printwell Printing Press as part of the activities of the College for production management and cost accounting students.

Ms. Hussein received the delegation which included Dr. Islam Bourini, Prof. Attiea Marie and a number of College of Business Administration students. The printing press director gave a detailed description of the printing process, the necessary preparations in terms of machinery, resources, initial work scheduling of machines and problems related to the printing process.

During the visit, students listened to the stages of determining the cost of production under the system of production orders used by the company.

The delegation toured the printing press to see first-hand the stages and production of the printing process.
